Norman Castles

The Normans built motte and bailey castles first because they were quick and easy to build.

The Normans built keep and bailey castles later on. They were much harder to build but were much stronger.

The motte is the mound that the castle sits on. It has steep sides so attackers would not be able to get to the castle easily.

The bailey is the area at the bottom of the motte. The army and workers would have lived there in small huts.

The keep was a stone tower. It was normally on a hill and would have been used as a look-out post.

The whole area would have had a fence or a wall around it. This would have kept out attackers.
